

Important Announcement Covid19

We would like to inform you that all of KES International's activities and conferences scheduled to take place in 2020, will be going ahead as planned, as at this time we have NO plans to reschedule or cancel any upcoming events.

If at the time of anyone of our conferences that you are registered to attend there is a government ban restricting travel due to Covid19 from your home country, we will ensure that provisions are made for your presentation to go ahead this year by way of virtual presentation.

In the event there is a travel ban that restricts any travel to the host country of the conference therefore leaving KES International no choice but to cancel the full event, we will make provisions for a virtual conference this year to be carried out in these circumstances. This is so that all the papers that have been accepted, will be able to be virtually presented and published in the conference proceedings with Elsevier Procedia.

We advise that any travel or hotel accommodation that you arrange has a fair cancellation policy.

If the event is cancelled KES International Management Limited cannot accept any consequential loss that you may occur.

Finally, at the conference we will be invoking a no handshake policy and we will be ensuring there are extra facilities of hand gel and handwash available to be used at all times. KES International taking the advice of the relevant authorities and scientists.

Kind regards
KES International Management Ltd.
